tries. When they thought they would win they wanted war, but I believe they have become wiser."

Khrushchev said people accused him of having said that communism would be the gravedigger of capitalism.

"All right, I did say it. But I didn't mean we would take shovels and dig their graves, only that history will inevitably give the victory to socialism — not voluntarily, we must struggle. The more organized working classes of the world there are the sooner that victory will come about."

Khrushchev said he had told recent American visitors: "We are stronger than you are. You have no intercontinental ballistic missiles. You send up rockets containing oranges. We send up rockets which can carry several tons. Imagine the size of the bomb that could be contained in our missiles compared to the size which could be contained in yours."

"You cannot equal us."

His listeners cheered and applauded.

Khrushchev asked himself when will the struggle between capitalism and communism end. He answered:

"When we have unified society all over the world, because all workers have the same interest, the best way to eliminate war is the gaining of power by Communists all over the world."

Khrushchev looked tired Wednesday night after a swift tour of Silesian towns. He sat quietly at a banquet in his honor after a brief exchange of toasts in white wine.

The dynamic Soviet leader kept to his full schedule Wednesday but had seemed tired and worn on his arrival by train from Warsaw. His speech at the railroad station was faltering and at times incoherent to many listeners.

His stuttering and babbling aroused laughter among the welcoming crowd, and some of the dignitaries covered their faces to hide their mirth.

(Khrushchev's health has been the subject of speculation for several months. Several West German and French newspapers reported in April that he had suffered fainting spells and printed rumors that he was afflicted with a brain tumor, high blood pressure or circulatory ailments.)

(Soviet officials brush off all such reports and rumors.)

nouncing opposition to secret sessions unless East and West Germany took part.

The outlines of the compromise emerged after a dinner conference Wednesday night at which Jakob Malik, Soviet ambassador to London, was guest of Sir Patrick Reilly, British ambassador to Moscow.

The conference still remained snarled, however, over a solution for the Berlin crisis — the basic issue that drew the four powers to Geneva.

The West stood fast against any Soviet truce formula for Berlin, granting new power and prestige to the East German Communist government.

Recruits May Pick Areas to Serve in

M Sgt. Daniel H. Mathis, the local Army Recruiter, announced today that the following metropolitan areas are now open for enlistment and reenlistment for the Air Defense Command:

New York, N. Y., Boston, Mass., New York, N. Y., Baltimore, Md., Minneapolis, Minn., Pittsburgh, Pa., Detroit, Mich., Seattle, Wash., Spokane, Wash., Philadelphia, Pa., Cincinnati, Ohio, and Kansas City, Missouri.

Sgt. Mathis said that an enlistee may choose any three of the areas and be guaranteed one of them. The Sgt. stated that these are guided missile sites which provide protection for the nation from an attack by air. These assignments consist of being trained in some phase of firing the missiles such as computing firing data, electronics repair communication, administration, operation of radar equipment and many others. For further information see your Army Recruiter at 322 W. 3d St. in Texarkana or call 3-7991.

Pine Bluff's Trans-Texas Stop Retained

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans-Texas Airways was authorized by the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday to serve Pine Bluff, Ark., on its Little Rock-New Orleans route.

The action reversed an earlier CAB decision. It at first denied Pine Bluff's request for the service on March 20, saying the move would increase Trans-Texas' annual subsidy need by about $6,000. The expense was not warranted by the small amount of traffic involved, the CAB said.

In changing the earlier decision, the agency said more current data indicated Pine Bluff is now generating more air traffic and that because of the increase the $6,000 subsidy would be lessened.

Further modifying its March 20 decision, the CAB ordered Trans-Texas to schedule two daily round trips between Little Rock, Pine Bluff and El Dorado, Ark., on the one hand, and Monroe, La., or points south on the Houston-Memphis route, before offering one-stop service between Monroe and Memphis.

Can Nation Afford Big Strike Today?

By JAMES MARLIS
Associated Press News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Each time a strike occurs in an essential industry affecting the whole economy — as now in steel — this question comes up:

Are we reaching a point where the government — meaning a majority of the people — can no longer permit and must forbid a strike in such an industry?

A strike in any industry was pretty much a private affair years ago when the government's revenue needs were smaller and the various people, plants and industries were far less interdependent than now.

But the American society is now highly complex and interdependent. A strike in one big industry can send out waves that splash thousands of workers, hundreds of businesses, and maybe drown many of them.

For example: This steel strike comes at a time when the nation is recovering from last year's slump. If it's short, it won't do much damage. It will do a lot if it lasts long.

If the strike continues long enough, other industries will use up their steel supplies and have to close, throwing many thousands out of work.

As their income—and the profits of their shut-down plants—are cut off, the national Treasury will suffer from loss of income tax revenue just when it is badly needed.

Thus a steel strike — unlike a strike in any industry in years past—is no longer truly private. It already affects and, if it lasts long enough, could paralyze a broad part of the national economy.

But individual rights—the right of employees to quit a job and of an employer to shut down his plant—and the right of both sides to work out their wages and profits must be balanced against the general welfare.

Thus the question: Is the President in the rear future likely to propose or Congress to approve a law forbidding a strike in an essential industry? Very likely not.

It would be political dynamite. Both unions and employers want a minimum of government interference. If the government through law could forbid a strike, it would almost certainly then impose compulsory arbitration.

This means that arbitrators appointed by the government would listen to both sides and give an opinion both sides would have to accept. If the government did that, out of justice it probably would have to do more.

In the end it would probably have to step in and regulate both wages and prices, which would mean regulating profits too. That would be true governmental control. Eventually it might have to take over the industry.

In 1947 Congress foresaw the national danger of a big strike and passed the Taft-Hartley Act. But still, while providing machinery for settling off a strike Congress stopped short of forbidding it altogether.

That law lets the President prevent a strike for 30 days while efforts are made to get both sides to reach agreement. But, after the enforced delay, the strike can go on.

The bill approved by the subcommittee has only two sections. One would require state and local officials to keep voter registration records for three years, and ballots for 10 months, and to make them available to the U.S. attorney general for inspection upon demand.

The other would extend from Sept. 9 of this year until Jan. 31, 1961, the life of the Civil Rights Commission — created two years ago primarily to investigate complaints of discriminatory denial of voting rights.

The subcommittee's action shifted the immediate battle arena to the full Judiciary Committee, presided over by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), a determined foe of civil rights legislation.

Civil Rights Bill Viewed With Caution

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — A first, short step toward getting a civil rights bill before the Senate brought expressions today of guarded, but contrary, hopes from opposing sides.

Southern opponents emphasized they would continue their fight to block a bill-titled measure that squeaked through a Senate Judiciary subcommittee Wednesday by a 4-3 vote.

"It could be amended into something more drastic," cautioned Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC).

Advocates of a stronger bill saw in the subcommittee's action a possibility that the logjam may be breaking.

Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.) called the bill only a skeleton, but said some meat may be put on it when it goes before the full Judiciary Committee, Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) said he hoped the Senate would go "a great deal further."

Scandal's a Luxury For Divorcee-to-be

Mary Louise Copeland.

Mr. and Mrs. James Copeland and sons of Arkadelphia spent Sunday with the Ross Copelands, and the boys have remained for the week.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Several years ago I married a college student and worked to help him through school and to get started in his profession. He was unreasonable about money matters, even refusing me an allowance out of my own earnings. He flew into a rage if I asked him to pay honest debts. We had one child and he resented her because she interfered with my working. Finally, he announced his intention of getting a divorce. I tried to save our marriage with the help of pastors, doctors, lawyers and marriage counselors but he was determined to sever our relationship. I accepted the inevitable and decided to rebuild my life on more stable ground. My problem is this. My husband feels that he was ordered to pay too much for our child and that by waiting a year for the divorce he may get better terms. That leaves me in a queer position. I'm working and have found a congenial group of friends. I can't date since I'm still married and I'm out of place with married people who travel in couples. I'm concerned about what people might think. — Lois

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a girl with a problem that many others have — but they usually don't admit it. I can't say "no." Every time I go out with a guy I give in and every time I stay out with the intention of being good. — Troubled.

Dear Troubled: We are endowed by our Creator with free will and the privilege of choosing between right and wrong. You are deliberately choosing wrong. Let's not pretty this thing up in fancy words. You are bad because that's what you want to be. If you have difficulty saying "no," stay away from boys. The only way you can break the "yes" habit is to make a sincere, firm resolve to be good. Talk your problem over with the guidance counselor at school, a youth worker at the nearest church — it doesn't matter whether the church is your own or not, any sympathetic adult will help you. The desire to be good, however, must come from within or nothing else will do.

Killebrew 9 Homers Over Ruth's Mark

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

On a rainy afternoon in Mid-March, Harmon Killebrew shrugged and said, "I think I may be able to hit better if I can hang on long enough to get a good look at the pitchers."

Four months later, on a rainy night in mid-July, Harmon swung and put himself nine games ahead of Babe Ruth's record 60 home run pace.

That shot Wednesday night was Killebrew's 31st, tops in the majors. It touched off a 3-0 victory over Detroit that pulled the Washington Senators past the Tigers into fifth place in the American League.

The game, held to five innings by rain, was the Nets' 85th. Ruth didn't hit No. 31 until his New York Yankees were in their 94th game when he set the record in 1927.

Rookie Bob Allison drove in the other Senator runs with a pair of doubles while Camillo Pascual winning 10 for the first time in the majors, put the Tigers away on one hit. Jim Bunning was the loser.

It was the only A.L. game played. The others were rained out.

In the National League, Los Angeles jumped past Milwaukee into second place, a game behind rain-idled San Francisco, with a 3-0 victory over Pittsburgh on Don Drysdale's three-hitter. The Chicago Cubs beat Milwaukee 3-2. Cincinnati rapped St. Louis 11-5.

Mims' Agent Worried in Spite of Win

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Holly Mims' manager is still worried, even though his clever fighter outpointed hard-punching George Benton in 10 rounds Wednesday night.

"I was afraid of this guy Benton," said Manager Nick Trotta. "He was the most feared middleweight around. I suppose now that we've beaten him we won't get any other fights for 10 months."

Mims, eighth-ranked middleweight, fought out of Baltimore, weighed 155½, as he tied up Benton's attack, refusing to give the 193½-pound Philadelphia puncher room.

The winner concentrated on short right uppercuts in taking an unanimous decision in the nationally televised bout.

Starting Hour of Tourney Changed

The starting time for the Ladies Golf Tournament has been changed to 9 Friday morning at the Hope Country Club rather than 1 p.m. as was previously announced.

All ladies who have turned in previous scorecards and who plan to participate should be on the first tee at 8:45 for a briefing on tournament and ground rules.

Pitching Puts Dodgers Into National Race

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

A suddenly settled pitching staff has made a National League contender out of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The mainstay of the crew is Don Drysdale—the guy who got "em started, the guy who's done the job as a starter or in relief, and the guy who's been their stopper.

The Dodgers began their run a month ago, when they were in fifth place. They've won 10 of 29 since and it all began with Drysdale's four-hit shutout over then first-place Milwaukee.

The cross-firing right-hander has lost only one since—that controversial one-hitter by San Francisco's Sam Jones.

Drysdale won his sixth in the Dodger surge Wednesday night, stopping their skid at three games with a three-hitter that beat Pittsburgh 3-0 and jumped Los Angeles back into second place.

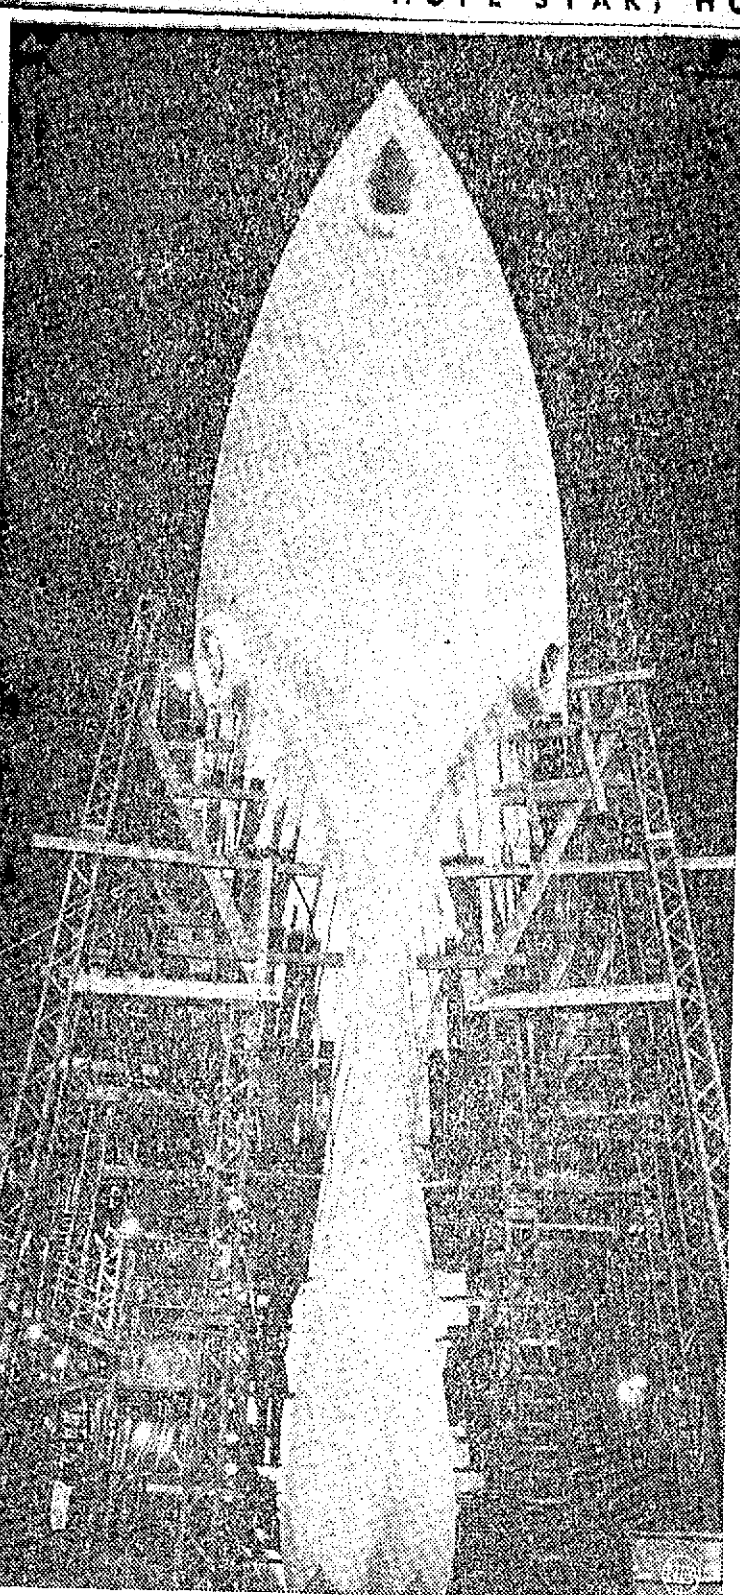

The Dodgers again are within one game of the first-place Giants, tied by rain, and have a .002 percentage point edge over the Braves, who slipped to third with a 5-2 defeat by the Chicago Cubs.

Cincinnati rapped St. Louis 11-5 in the other N.L. game. Rain postponed all but one game in the American League.

Sophomore Glen Hobbie (10-7) pushed his career record to 3-0 over the Braves with a five-hitter. He also singled home the run that clinched it when the Cubs scored twice in the fourth against loser Carl Willey (4-4) for a 3-1 lead.

Frank Robinson of the Reds took the National League run-batted-in lead with 35, one more than the Cubs' Ernie Banks, with a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly.

Johnny Temple drove in four runs, with a double and sacrifice fly, for the Reds, who had 17 hits—five by Gus Bell. Rookie Jim O'Toole (2-2) won it, with Brooks

4-Ball Tourney Players Must Qualify 22nd

Wednesday, July 15, marked the first day of qualifying for the Four-Ball golf tournament to be played at the Hope Country Club on Sunday, July 26. All players who plan to participate must register at the pro shop, pay the 50¢ entry fee, and turn in their 18-hole qualifying score on or before Wednesday, July 22.

Teams will consist of two players and will be determined by qualifying scores. The player turning in the lowest qualifying score will be paired with the highest score. The second low man will be paired with the second highest, and so on.

Players are discouraged from qualifying if for some reason they may not be able to play in the tournament, since if they fail to play, their partner is automatically disqualified. There will be no last minute "fill ins" since this would be unfair to the other teams.

Six beautiful trophies have been ordered and will be presented to each man of the first three winning teams.

Golf Tourney Opens Friday at Camden

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—The 12th annual Ouachita Valley Golf Tournament begins tomorrow at the Camden Country Club. The meet will be prefaced by a 3600 pro-am tournament played in conjunction with the qualifying round tomorrow afternoon.

Thirty-two golfers will make up the championship flight for 72 holes of medal play. Final rounds will be played Sunday.

Richard Crawford of Jacksonville, who recently won the NCAA title, is expected to head a field of about 180.

Defending champion Miller Barber of Texarkana will not be eligible since he turned professional this summer.

The championship flight will be cut to 16 after the first 36 holes.

First prize in the Pro-Am is $250. Camden Club Pro Al Rayford said $1,500 in merchandise prizes will go to winners in the Ouachita Valley meet.

Birmingham Beats Dixie All-Stars

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—It's likely to be a long, hot summer for other teams in the Southern Assn. after Birmingham's 7-6 victory over the league All-Stars last night.

And today the argument could still be heard about the play that might have been turning point for the Stars.

It came in the sixth inning at home plate.

The Barons sent ten men to bat in that inning and scored four runs, three after the controversial tally by Jay Cooke, who had walked.

Jim Hughes singled and then Bob Meador singled with two out, scoring Cooke. Meador's shot was fired in by Mobile centerfielder John Waters of New Orleans catcher Frank Baldwin.

Cooke, edged Baldwin's tag and was called safe by umpire Ralph Daugherty. All-Star manager Ned McGaha and coach Hal Marnes joined Baldwin in protesting that Cooke did not touch the plate.

McGaha was bitter as the debate raged. "We had the score a victory until that play," he said. "Waters made a fair play and the plate umpire just blew it."

Cooke reacted just as Cooke's plate umpire just blew it. "That's the way it goes," he said. "I don't know what you think out West and how you feel about it."

4-3 lead and a chance to keep rolling.

Haney Thinks Pirates Club to Beat

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Fred Haney today took a look at the tight National League race and conceded that his Milwaukee Braves "could take it if they will play up to their capabilities."

"There is a lot of talk about San Francisco and Los Angeles," Haney continued. "But don't forget Pittsburgh. Right now I even like the Pirates better than the other two."

"Actually though, any of four teams could take it. The trouble is, none of them can break away. Take us, for instance. Los Angeles beats us twice. Then we beat San Francisco twice. Then we come back to Chicago, and the Cubs have beaten us twice."

"In this league, a first division team can roll into town against a second division club and get their heads knocked off. That's happening all the time."

"As for us," Haney added, "we just aren't playing up to our capabilities. If we do, and continue to do it, we will win. But right now, I can't see anything but a battle right down to the wire."

"Our hitting as a team has tapered off and hasn't been to good all the way along. The batting averages of some are the only thing keeping the whole club from looking dead at the plate on paper. Definitely, there is a lot to be desired. I can think of it at least 10 games we've lost in the outfield."

West Against Concessions to East Germany

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—The West stood fast today against any Berlin treaty formula granting East Germany's Communist government.

Western leaders said they would not go along with Soviet efforts to obtain a Berlin deal recognizing the East and West German regimes as political equals.

The West's Wednesday's session rejected the Soviet proposal for a "four big powers" meeting to discuss the future of East and West Germany.

The Soviet proposal was the payoff for the Soviet demand that the reunification of West Berlin and the rest of Germany must come up for discussion.

THE VIOLENT END

A suspense story by NORMAN DANIELS

THE STORY: Diane found a child. The child disappeared or was stolen. Only Casey, Diane's husband, believed there was a child because Diane has just recovered from a temporary mental condition which involved the loss of her own child. After Casey goes back to Boston, Diane returns home to find the lights burning in her cottage. She stares at the divan.

XV

The wrinkled, sea-encrusted little hat the girl had worn lay on the divan, just as it had the day Diane had taken the child to the village. Diane's hope and anxiety were so great she scarcely dared to take a breath.

She could see into the kitchen and the little girl's coat was on the back of a chair, as if it were drying just where Diane had left it.

Diane found herself moving toward the bedroom on legs that threatened to give way under her. She could feel the beat of her heart against her rib casing and she tried to remember if she'd felt like this during those awful moments when she'd walked in front of the truck, or reached for the razor blade.

Even now, there was no memory of either time and her thoughts on both instances were fleeting, to be ruthlessly thrust aside by more important ones.

Diane stood in the bedroom door. She was sure the child was there. She was positive of it.

The bedroom was to dark for her to distinguish the bed or anyone on it, but Diane was certain she could hear the steady breathing of someone in a deep sleep. She reached out for the wall switch and murmured a brief prayer before she snapped on the lights.

The little girl lay in the bed, covered up, just as when she'd been here before. She looked wonderfully pretty in sleep. Diane walked slowly and quietly to stand beside the bed and look down at the child. The small chest rose and fell in rhythm. The face seemed a trifle flushed; otherwise, she appeared to be normal. Slowly, Diane went down on one knee beside the bed. She placed a gentle hand on the girl's forehead. It was slightly damp with perspiration. Anxiously, Diane pulled down the covers and picked up the child's hand. She felt for the pulse, found it irregular and strong.

"Darling," Diane said, "darling, wake up."

The child gave no sign of response. Diane rose quickly, bent over her, touched her cheeks.

"Darling, please wake up!" The child continued to sleep. Diane stepped back from the bed, genuinely frightened. Oh, why wasn't there a telephone? She had to do something! The child was ill, unable to awaken.

She removed the blanket from the other bed. Then she picked up the little girl. If only those chubby little arms would reach up, go about her neck, Diane thought. If only the child would open her eyes and speak.

She arranged the blanket about the girl and carried her out to where the station wagon was parked. Diane had, so far, given no thought as to how the little girl had reached the house, who had tucked her in bed and arranged her clothing as Diane herself had placed it that first time. Diane had no fear. A child depended upon her and there was no room for fear.

The station wagon started smoothly. She made certain the little girl wouldn't roll off the seat and that she was snugly enveloped in the blanket, for the evening was cool. Then she backed the car around and headed up the steep incline to the village road.

Almost at the top, her headlights picked up the large tree bough which had fallen across the lane. It was a great thing of green leaves and branches, blocking the lane so effectively nothing could get by.

Of course, this was a deliberate attempt to keep her from reaching the village with the child. There'd been no wind, nothing to send that branch crashing down. This could be an attempt to harm the little girl, who very likely needed a doctor.

Angrily, Diane stepped out of the station wagon and ran to where the branch lay. She tugged at it but the thing wouldn't budge. She plunged into the brush beside the lane, got all the way around the branch and from above it she was in a better position to push it down and to one side.

She felt that she had the strength of a dozen Amazons. She could have shifted an entire tree off that lane if necessary.

She found the most solid part of the branch and pushed. The huge mass began to move, to slide.

Just enough room to get by. No matter if she had to send the car plunging through smaller branches and the brush beside the road. Nothing mattered except to get the child to the village promptly.

Diane was unable to see the other wagon because of the darkness, but the headlights shone through. Encouraged by the slight movement of the branch she kept pushing. The leaves seemed to dance.

The car headlights were wobbling. Something was wrong. Diane clamped her eyes open and of the brush behind the smaller branches to part them, and then she screamed aloud in terror. For the first time since this night she began to shudder.

The station wagon was backing up and turning to the right and then it began to accelerate. Diane saw the car's taillights.

Won't Apply Taft-Hartley Law in Strike

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today present conditions do not warrant invoking the Taft-Hartley law in an effort to end the steel strike.

At a news conference, Eisenhower declined to speculate on when steel stockpiles might be reduced to a point which would imperil national defense.

The Taft-Hartley law permits the government to seek a court order to end any work stoppage which the President finds is a threat to national security.

Discussing the strike which commenced at midnight Tuesday, Eisenhower again expressed hope that free bargaining between the steel companies and the union will result quickly in a new contract.

The President was asked specifically to estimate, on the basis of his knowledge regarding steel stockpiles, how long the strike could continue before it interfered with defense production.

Eisenhower replied that he could make no accurate estimate. But, he said, if all of the inventories on hand should be used up, there would be a very serious situation.

A reporter asked whether Eisenhower thought, now that a strike is under way, that the government should have pursued any different course in its efforts to head off a shutdown.

Eisenhower replied that he is convinced the government course was right. We have to have free bargaining in such situations, he said, if there is to be much government pressure, then bargaining is not free.

Eisenhower then went on to note the Taft-Hartley law's provision that the government may seek an 80-day injunction to halt strikes imperiling national health and safety.

Those conditions, Eisenhower said firmly, are not here at the moment.

The President again called for management and union officials to display statesmanship and responsibility in efforts to settle the strike. He noted that representatives of both sides have agreed to meet today with officials of the Federal Mediation Service.

Suit Is Dropped by Mrs. Stephens
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Mrs. Charles W. Stephens yesterday dropped her suit contesting Robert W. Laster's election to the Little Rock School Board.

Edwin Dunaway, Mrs. Stephens' attorney, said the action was taken because Mrs. Stephens approved the attitudes toward operating schools of W. C. McDonald, who was appointed last week to replace Laster on the board.

Laster and two other outspoken segregationists were recalled from the board May 25 after they tried to fire 44 teachers.

Mrs. Stephens, who lost by 111 votes, filed suit contesting the election late in December. Several hearings have been held and 425 contested votes recounted.

Presumably, Mrs. Stephens would have taken the seat now held by McDonald if her suit against Laster's election had been successful.

Compulsory Polio Shots Questioned
HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The Hot Springs Board of Education decided last night to ask the attorney general about the legality of requiring beginning pupils to have polio immunization shots.

The proposal was advanced by board member Jack H. Smith. He said it would "save one child from this dread disease I'll be willing to withstand any criticism from parents."

Other board members indicated they favored such a plan but felt an official action should await an opinion from Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett.

Dr. Hugh Mills, school superintendent, was instructed to write for the opinion.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Signs at a used car lot heralded the dealer as the "Poor Man's Friend."

L. R. Board
Asks Faubus
to Show Hand

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Little Rock School Board last night challenged Gov. Orval E. Faubus to reveal what plan, if any, he has for legally maintaining segregation in public high schools here.

Unless a valid, legal plan exists,
the board said, its "sole remaining choice is to proceed with a plan to open the schools this fall under a pupil assignment law designed to minimize integration.

Pre-registration of high school pupils was set for Tuesday through Friday of next week.

The board adopted a resolution stating that each member would prefer to operate segregated schools but "if no choice is offered, we will not abandon free public education in order to avoid integration."

The resolution noted that Faubus has been quoted as having intimated that he "possibly has a plan" for legal segregation.

"If Gov. Faubus and his attorneys have conceived of such a plan, we earnestly request that he immediately communicate such plan to us immediately," the resolution said.
"We stand ready at all times to confer with him on this matter."

Faubus, vacationing in northwest Arkansas, could not be reached for comment.

The resolution was adopted by a 4-1 vote with President Everett Tucker Jr., abstaining and member Russell Matson voting in the negative. Matson, who was one of three anti-Faubus board members to retain his seat in a recent recall election, declined to explain his "no" vote.

All four high schools have remained closed all last year under Faubus' order. The board regained control of the schools recently when a federal court struck down the law under which Faubus closed them.

The board said last night that white students who live in the attendance area of Horace Mann High, an all-negro school, will be permitted to register for Central while Negro students in the Hall and Central high areas may register for Horace Mann. Tech High for whites has a citywide attendance area.

If a Negro student attempts to enroll at one of the white schools, he could be transferred arbitrarily to Mann under a 1959 pupil placement act. The act, modeled after an Alabama law which has been upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court, permits a board to assign students to schools for a number of reasons but race is not mentioned.

The board action came on the heels of an announcement by Amis
Guthridge, attorney for the Capital Citizens Council, that the segregationist group would resist any attempts at integration.

Guthridge yesterday called use of the pupil assignment law a subterfuge to make the people of Little Rock accept integration. He said the people would not be fooled.

Tucker, School Supt. Terrell
Powell and Herschel H. Friday are the board's attorney, were scheduled to leave today for New-York, Va., and Charlotte, N. C., where they will study operation of the integrated public schools in those cities.

Norfolk and Charlotte have taken integration under pupil placement laws similar to Arkansas'.

Communist Accusation Irks Castro

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP)—What is the truth about Communist infiltration in Cuba's revolutionary regime?

The former chief of Cuba's air force told a Senate committee in Washington Prime Minister Fidel Castro is himself a Communist and heads a Red dictatorship.
Cuban officials from Castro down angrily scoffed at this testimony. They called Maj. Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz a liar and a deserter and traitor who sold out to interests opposing Cuba's revolutionary program.

The truth appears to lie somewhere between these two extremes.

Castro admits there are Communist in his rebel army. He says that when he was fighting dictator Fulgencio Batista, he didn't stop to examine a man's politics, if he wanted to help.

Castro, denies emphatically however, that Communists are playing a major part in Cuba's political life.

"Ours is not a Communist revolution," he says. "It is a Cuban

Polio Cases in State Show 8-Time Gain

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas polio cases are eight times greater than last year, a State Board of Health report showed today.

For this year 46 cases have been reported, compared to only seven at this time last year. And 52 of this year's cases have been paralytic. Five paralytic cases were reported last year.

Of the 46 cases reported last week, of which 14 were paralytic, the five-year average of five cases.

Weekly report of the division of Communicable Disease Control shows the greatest increase in persons who have not had any polio shots. Non-vaccinated persons accounted for 37 of the paralytic cases so far—more of them last week.

Among vaccinated persons, 10 who have had three shots have suffered paralytic polio. Of the four unvaccinated cases so far this year three had no shots and one had received one inoculation.

Polio has accounted for 22 deaths this year. A little girl died last week in Fort Smith and a 27-year-old man died earlier this week in Little Rock.

By Counties, Pulaski last week had four cases, Miller had three and Baxter had two. Other counties reporting one case each were Benton, Drew, Lafayette, Lenoir, Newton, Stacey and Washington.

Health Department officials have warned that Arkansas may face a polio epidemic unless the number of vaccinations increases.

United States mail boats are floating post offices in the Great Lakes, delivering and taking aboard mail and parcel post while moving alongside freighters.

Phone Rate Hearing Put Off to Aug. 10

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Public Service Commission yesterday recessed until Aug. 10 a hearing at which Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. is battling against a proposed three-nickel-a-dollar a year decrease in its Arkansas rates.

The commission told Bell to be prepared to finish its case by Aug. 13. The commission then will examine Bell witnesses.

Bell already has spent four days in presenting expert witnesses. One of these, Dr. John E. Kane of Fayetteville, said yesterday that Bell's net profit had been overstated as a result of inflation.

Kane, a professor of economics at the University of Arkansas, said the false profit figures were reached because depreciation of Bell equipment was computed on original cost rather than the replacement cost, which is considerably higher because of inflation.

Dr. Richard B. Johnson, chairman of Southern Methodist University's Department of Economics, told the commission that Bell should be allowed to earn 9 to 10 per cent of its investment each year if the original cost method of figuring investment is to be retained.

The PSC ordered Bell to show cause why its rates should not be reduced and announced the company had earned by excess of 9 per cent in 1958. Six per cent is the traditional earning permitted Arkansas utilities.

Johnson, who testified most of the past two days, said the 6 per cent figure was "unrealistic in the light of present day conditions."

Montagnana, a town in Italy, is entirely surrounded by medieval walls.

A thick cut of beef chuck, either the blade-bone or the meaty round-bone choice, makes a hearty and economical selection for the barbecue. Beef just naturally is everyone's first choice for cooking on the outdoor grill. However, the economical chuck sometimes has been overlooked in favor of steaks and ground beef.

There are special tricks in barbecuing the chuck cuts. Start first, of course, with quality beef. For best results, let the meat stand overnight in a flavorful sauce. When the coals beneath the grill are just right, barbecue the beef chuck to just the degree of doneness you and your family prefer, approximately 30 to 40 minutes total time, depending on the thickness of cut and preference for doneness. Throughout the cooking, liberally brush the meat with the marinade, turning the meat halfway during the cooking period. When done, slice with a sharp knife across the grain of the meat and feast happily.

Probably you will want to slice the meat thin and serve the slices in buns which will take up the flavorful juices. Serve with potatoes which have baked in foil over the coals, a big relish tray which offers lettuce and tomatoes and other accompaniments for the juicy beef sandwiches, as well as crisp carrots and celery for out-of-hand munching. Ice cream from cups or cupcakes and the family's favorite beverage complete this economical beef barbecue feast.

Bellamy and Heston Fight for FDR Role

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Who will portray Franklin D. Roosevelt in the screen version of "Sunrise at Campobello," Ralph Bellamy or Charlton Heston?

Right now it's a toss-up.

Producer Dore Schary whose spectacular Broadway success played 535 performances, says the decision is up to Bellamy.

"Ralph hasn't told me whether he wants to play the role on the screen," Schary said. "He thinks he may be too old for the movie version, but I think Ralph would be just as effective as he is on the stage."

"If he wants the part it's his. However, in the play Roosevelt is depicted between the ages of 39 and 41, and Ralph is 54."

Plays Historical Figures

Heston, on the other hand is in his mid-30s, and accustomed to playing historical figures.

In his brief but rampaging career Heston has played Moses, Andrew Jackson and now Ben Hur. Schary has contacted the big guy for the "Campobello" picture and Heston is enthusiastic.

"Charlton would make a fine Roosevelt," Schary said.

"We won't go into production until next March, so there is ample time to think about casting the role. If neither Ralph nor Charlton are able to do it, I have a couple of other actors in mind."

Use Hyde Park

"We'll shoot the bulk of the picture in Hollywood with locations at Campobello and Hyde Park, the old Roosevelt home. It is now a national shrine, but think the Department of Interior will give us permission to use the old house for actual interior scenes."

Schary went on to say that Eleanor Roosevelt helped tremendously with details and background material while he was writing the play.

"Sunrise at Campobello" was a great hit with everybody because of the wonderful emotional response it elicited from every audience. I even received congratulations from the toughest of Republicans.

"The story is not essentially political. It relates an era in the life of a warm human being who overcomes a dreadful handicap—polio."

Tennis Club Reverses Negro Stand

NEW YORK (AP)—The governors of the fashionable West Side Tennis Club say they would give "courteous and prompt attention" to a membership application by Dr. Ralph J. Bunche or his 15-year-old son Ralph Jr.

The governors have accepted the resignation of the club president, who told Bunche that he and his son were not eligible for membership because they are Negroes.

A statement by the governors Tuesday also said "it is the policy of the club to consider and accept members without regard to race, creed or color."

Bunche, a winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, said there seemed to be no immediate likelihood that he or his son would apply for membership.

Bunche, United Nations under secretary for special political affairs, announced recently he had been barred from the club in the Forest Hills section of Queens.

He said he had been told by Wilfred Burghard, the club president, when he inquired about membership for his son, that the club did not accept Negroes.

Bunche's announcement set up a storm of protest.

Decision on Bond Purchase Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The secretary of the state Board of Finance indicated yesterday the board will make no decision soon on whether to purchase bonds of the First Arkansas Development Finance Corp.

Secretary Frank Storey said the board decided at a recent meeting to delay a decision on whether to buy the bonds. Gov. Orval E. Faubus, ex-officio board chairman, has not set another meeting.

The board reportedly has been considering buying about two million dollars worth of First Arkansas bonds.

The First Arkansas firm was created by a 1957 act which permits the state to invest up to five million dollars in non-profit firms organized to promote industry. The state Supreme Court recently upheld the act.
